"The strategic alliance between Transportation Insight, Total Insight and United Sourcing Alliance expands our ability to provide clients with a wholistic supply chain through logistics, consulting, and materials," said Paul Thompson, chief executive officer.

"Our mission is to create a competitive advantage for our clients. With our growth of services, we can do this even better by helping to cut more cost and providing solutions to sustain the improvement."

Transportation Insight was founded in 1995 as a small consulting company. By 2000, the company had grown both in size and in scope, and has since continued growing into a nationwide lead logistics provider. Transportation Insight's mission is to create a competitive advantage for its clients by providing logistics expertise, transportation management system software, logistics network engineering and analysis, business intelligence, and numerous logistics management services ranging from rate negotiations to freight bill audit and payment.

Total Insight, founded in 1989 as Petra International, has helped more than 300 executive leadership teams across numerous industries accomplish goals for excellence, productivity and financial performance. The creation of Total Insight merged Petra International's resources with top management employees and experienced professionals from Transportation Insight.

Total Insight's goal is to build high-trust, sustainable workplace communities by taking the wholistic path to excellence, Thompson said.

United Sourcing Alliance was founded in 1998 as a group purchasing organization focused on indirect; packaging; and maintenance, repair and operational (MRO) supplies. Today, United Sourcing Alliance (USA) has diversified into a comprehensive procurement services provider.
